and intention which constantly study the enterprise in hand, which make it the one affair in life, constantly thought of and planned for-an intelligence and intention, too, which are themselves as nearly as possible per-and just the kind that is fitted to that.

Indeed, between government control and private control the difference in that respect is almost the exact differ-place irrespective of special fitness and most things are ill done, much not done at all, because the government is not able to do it without delays which are fatal to its purpose; that the more troublesome and less showy of the functions undertaken are postponed and neglected, and an excuse is always ready for the neglect, while the heads
